JUSTICE, HUMAN RIGHTS HIGH ON CHURCH LIST

Federal Council of Churches Opens 40th Annual Session in Cincinnati Today.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Dec. 1—The fight for justice and human rights by protestants in secular life held a prominent place today in opening day discussions at the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America convention.

Six major problems to be aired at the 40th annual session were the church's responsibility for older people, displaced persons and human rights, along with measures to combat juvenile delinquency, increase church membership and develop greater lay participation in church leadership.

The convention attracted some 500 delegates representing 25 protestant denominations with 28,000,000 members.

Leading churchmen, economists and social workers will lead discussions of the six issues at group study meetings. Findings of the six sections will be presented to the general business sessions on Friday, final day of the conference.

Ask Membership

A half dozen formal plans got the discussion groups under way after several items of routine business. Formal applications for membership from the Romanian Orthodox Church in America and the Religious Society of Friends of Philadelphia and vicinity were considered at the opening session.

Both prospective members indicated their willingness to join several months ago. The Friends claim a membership of almost 5,000; the Romanian Orthodox church a membership of 21,000. Final action on their application will come tomorrow.

Rev. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the council since 1921, keynoted the biennial session with a speech on "The Federal Council—Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

In a prepared address, Dr. Cavert described the council as the heart of the movement to bring Christianity into daily life.

"It has been a prophetic insight into the nature of the gospel and a true guidance of the Holy Spirit which has led the American churches to challenge social evils and to join in a united testimony to what they understand the lordship of Christ to mean," he said, adding:

Prevents Communism

"The constant struggle to make our society more Christian by securing both freedom and justice for all people is the only effective long-range way of preventing Communism."

Cavert said the council should place more emphasis on obtaining laymen as church leaders.

"Much of the feebleness of the church in relation to secular affairs has been due to its depending too exclusively on the verbal witness borne by the preacher in the pulpit, and too little on the witness of the deed borne by men and women in their daily occupation," he said.

Tonight's session will feature a 40th anniversahry dinner in the Masonic temple. Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam, Methodist bishop of New York, and Rev. George W. Richards, of Lancaster, Pa., president emeritus of the Theological Seminary of the Evangelical and Reformed church, will be the main speakers.

Noyes, First Head Of Associated Press, Dies

By The Associated Press

FRANK B. NOYES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Frank B. Noyes, 85, one of A[illegible] pioneer newspaper leaders, died today.

Noyes, who helped organize the present Associated Press and served 38 years as its first president, had been in failing health for some time. But until last winter he had taken an active hand in the management of the Washington Evening Star as its president and chairman of the board of directors.

A practicing journalist for more than 60 years, Noyes actually began his newspaper career at the age of six—selling extras upon President Grant's first inauguration. The years that followed saw him rise to the top in the Washington and Chicago newspaper fields, with national prominence resulting from his contributions to The Associated Press.

Reelected in 1938

When he retired as Associated Press president in 1938, he was reelected by acclamation to the board of directors on which he continued active service until April 21, 1947.

Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, who succeeded Noyes as Associated Press president, said his manifold services to the organization "will remain as the greatest contribution by an individual to newspapers."

Noyes died at his residence at 1:40 a. m.

Funeral services have not been announced.

His wife, the former Janet Thruston Newbold, died in 1942, and their three children, Newbold Noyes, Mrs. Edward H. Hart and Mrs. Ethel Noyes Lewis, also are dead. The following grandchildren survive: Newbold Noyes Jr., Crosby S. Noyes, Thomas E. Noyes, Janet Hart Golden, Ann Hart and Willmott Lewis Jr.

Noyes was born into a newspaper family on July 7, 1863. His father, Crosby Stuart Noyes, moved here from Maine in 1852 and three years later joined the newly-founded Star. Young Frank Noyes worked summers on the paper.

Got Early Start

At 18 he left Columbian college (later George Washington university) to learn the newspaper business "from the ground up" and at the age of 23 became the Star's treasurer and business manager.

His contacts here brought him into close relationship with national and world leaders. In the years before and during World War I he was confidential advisor to the British and French ambassadors, and Presidents Taft and Wilson entrusted him with many state secrets, as did many others.

Throughout his journalistic career Noyes stressed above all that newspapers must tell the news impartially. He was a leader in the departure from the personal journalism which characterized the late 19th century. He declared when he retired as Associated Press president:

"I pray God that the time may never come when any individual can dictate to the newspapers of the United States the nature of the reports that they give."

Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, said:

"Frank B. Noyes had a devotion to the principle of cooperative newsgathering that was inspiring to the small circle of those who were privileged really to know him. For 55 years he deeply interested himself in The Associated Press. He once said of affection for it akin to what he had for his wife and children. He was jealous of its good name and earnest in advancing its welfare."

HOSPITAL DRIVE GOES OVER TOP

$95,000 More Than Doubles Campaign Goal at Upper Sandusky.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Dec. 1—By subscribing more than double the $47,000 quota required for federal aid, Wyandot county is assured its first hospital, it was announced today. Superintendent of Upper Sandusky schools, Charles E. Davis, hospital drive chairman reported $95,115.84 has been raised to guarantee an $120,000 grant by the government, with drive reports not quite complete.

Final total may not be reached until ground breaking for the new project which has been set for March 1, he said. Several industries, public utilities and other sources have yet to be heard from as the subscription total keeps snowballing toward the $100,000 mark.

Start Drive in October

The drive which got underway in October and was marked by a two-week canvass beginning Nov. 9 netted $62,000 in cash donations and $33,000 in pledges payable Feb. 1, the drive chairman reported.

Already available is a total of $211,000, comprising $165,000 in bond issues voted for hospital purposes prior to the war and state funds previously earmarked for the project. With federal aid, the hospital board of governors headed by Dr. Craig Bowman, will have nearly $440,000 for the project.

Site for the hospital is located at the northern outskirts of Upper Sandusky near the Wyandot county fairgrounds. Comprising about seven acres, the site belonged to the city and was turned over to the hospital board by city council.

Size of Hospital

Present plans now on the drawing boards of architects Kyle and McLaughlin of Lima, call for a 29 bed hospital including a ten basket nursery. Inasmuch as the local quota has been exceeded by about $50,000 so far, tentative plans are being made for a more completely equipped surgery and kitchen.

Provision is being made in construction plans for future expansion. Facilities including the operating room, kitchen and heating plant are to be so arranged that a 75 bed installation may be reached at a later date without extensive alteration.

BAR ELECTED OPPONENTS OF COMMUNISTS

Soviet-Controlled German Police Aid Reds in Taking Over Berlin Government.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, Dec. 1—Communists took over complete control today of the Berlin city hall, which lies in the Soviet sector.

Russian-controlled German police barred the acting mayor of the legally elected anti-Communist government of Berlin from his office in the city hall.

This display of force followed up the putsch yesterday in which Berlin Communists named their own rump city administration.

The acting mayor is Ferdinand Friedensburg, a Christian Democrat. Five officers of the Russian controlled police stopped him at the door when he sought to enter his office at the city hall.

Communist Friedrich Ebert, whom the Communists "elected" mayor unanimously in their controlled convention yesterday, later entered for conferences with his chief of the city economics department, Karl Maron.

Renew Demand

The division of the city prompted some German anti-Communist leaders to renew a demand that the United States, Britain and France make the western mark the sole legal money for western Berlin.

Those backing this idea include Chairman Carl Schwennicke of the rightist Liberal Democrats; Kurt Landsberg, parliamentary chief of the conservative Christian Democrats and Socialist Assemblyman Ernest Heinzelmann.

Both western marks and Soviet-sponsored marks circulate now in the western sectors of Berlin. The Western Powers have hesitated to go all out with western marks here while the possibility remained for a United Nations solution of the dual currency problem.

The police in the Russian sector are headed by Moscow-trained Paul Markgraf, who has refused to accept his dismissal ordered by the anti-Communist government.

Friedensburg and a few other elected officials had retained offices in the city hall after riotous Communist demonstrators had driven the anti-Communist city assembly and most other officials to western Berlin, which is occupied by the United States, Britain and France.

Friedensburg's aim was to maintain at least the symbol of a central administration for this divided city as long as possible.

Now the communists apparently are putting a halt even to that fiction and taking over in force.

The Russian-controlled ADN news agency said police barred Friedensburg because "he has been dismissed as mayor and entrance to the city hall is now barred to all members of the former magistrat (government) and their offices are locked."

The mayor of Berlin, is Mrs. Louise Schroeder, 61. She has been handicapped by illness. Friedensburg has served for her.

Ottomar Geschke, a leader of the Communist-dominated SED party, sent letters to the military governors of the four occupying powers last night asking for recognition of the new regime. He said the "extraordinary city assembly" (meaning a hand-picked convention) had removed the elected government as irresponsible and formed the new government to function until "free, unified democratic elections are held in all of Berlin." The request for recognition, however had been rejected in advance by the denunciatory statements issued by American and British occupation chiefs.

Marion County Oil Sought In New Drilling Venture

Marion county's first oil and gas well drilling activity in 20 years now is in progress on the former Judge Norris farm just north of route 30-S, eight miles east of Marion.

N. B. Dibble, Kenton oil operator and veteran driller, today completed 200 feet of drilling on a well which may go as deep as 2,700 feet.

Depth of the new well will be determined by what Mr. Dibble finds as he probes with his drill. He is now drilling in limestone. His first goal is to reach the Newburgh gas sands. With luck these may be reached after 600 to 650 feet of drilling. Should these fail to bring a gas well, his second goal will be the Clinton sands, which often field natural gas. Should this sand prove barren Mr. Dibble will continue drilling until he reaches the St. Petersburg oil sand believed to lie about 2,700 feet underground here.

Runs 24-Hours a Day

He is using a revamped "Clipper drilling machine with a stepped up 80-horsepower gasoline motor. Two drilling crews keep the machine going steadily 'round the clock on a 24-hour drilling schedule. Mr. Dibble drills the day shift with Earl Titus of Kenton as his tool dresser. Paul Boyd of Forest is night shift driller with Kenneth Mentzer of Kenton as his tool dresser.

Mr. Dibble, with a background of 40 years of oil and gas well drilling in all the major U. S. oil fields from coast to coast and in Canada and Mexico, has high hopes of reopening oil production here with new wells. Due south of where he is now drilling he wells drilled here 60 years ago which still produce gas. Mr. Dibble has drilled 118 producing wells in Michigan in sands closely resembling those encountered in this area. So firm is his belief and that of his associates that oil pearing ground lies in this area they have taken 57 leases covering 5,795 acres here. The well now in progress is located on a lease of 411 acres. Already some Marion county investors have bought into the drilling venture but the main group backing the local venture are from Detroit.

Last Venture

Marion county's last oil excitement was more than 20 years ago when a number of producing wells were drilled within a short distance south of where Mr. Dibble's rig is now at work. The last active oil and gas pumping here ended in 1930. A market for locally produced gas now exists Mr. Dibble says.

He has all necessary drilling equipment in readiness to fully exploit the Marion county fields should this test well prove successful and can put seven drilling outfits into action on short notice.

FARMER ARRESTED FOLLOWING FIGHT

Casper Saxton Released on $200 Bond; Denies Guilt.

Casper Saxton, 29, Centerville district farmer, in southwestern Marion county, was released today under $200 bond after pleading not guilty in municipal court to assault and battery charges.

Marion County Sheriff LeRoy Retterer arrested Saxton late Monday on a charge of assaulting Ralph Watson of 487 Park street during a fight Sunday night near the Welcome Inn on route 4 southwest of Marion.

Watson is in City hospital where his condition is reported as only "fair." A sheriff's department spokesman said Watson's face, mouth, and nose were badly battered in the Sunday night fight.

Hospital attendants reported Watson suffered lacerations of the scalp and face, and a badly battered mouth. He will be X-rayed today to determine whether he has a fracture of the nose. Seventeen stitches were required to close wounds on the inside of his mouth while an additional twelve stitches were needed to close a gash in his forehead.

Saxton was booked by Sheriff Retterer at municipal court late yesterday and his case continued till today's court session where he entered a not guilty plea, posted bond and was released. No date for Saxton's trial has been set while the sheriff's department and court officials await the outcome of Watson's injuries. Attorney Bernard Maloney of the law firm of Maloney and Kelly represented Saxton in court today.

A sheriff's department spokesman said there was a strong possibility the fight between the two men Sunday night arose from an old score as no argument is known to have occurred between them immediately prior to the Sunday night battle.

Mme. Chiang Marshall Guest

Goes to Home of Secretary of State Pending Plea for China Aid.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Madame Chiang Kai-shek, first lady of China, arrived today to seek new American backing for China's hard-pressed Nationalist government.

The Chinese first lady was met at the airport by Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the secretary of state.

Ambassador Wellington Koo and other embassy officials also greeted her.

Madame Chiang arrived from San Francisco aboard President Truman's former personal plane, the Sacred Cow.

President's Representative

At the White House, Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that Mr. Truman was represented at the airport by his air force aide, Col. Robert Landry.

In reply to a question, Ross said he did not know with whom in the government Madame Chiang might confer.

Also in reply to a question, Ross said no engagement for Madame Chiang to see Mr. Truman had been "set up to now." He added that he did not know whether she had made a request to see the President.

Top American administration officials were missing. The state department sent Walter Butterworth, chief of its Far Eastern affairs.

Makes No Statement

Madame Chiang left immediately with Mrs. Marshall for the Marshall home at nearby Leesburg, Va., without a word to reporters as to the unofficial mission of any other visitor.

She will be Mrs. Marshall's guest there for the time being.

REDS CLOSING IN ON NANKING

Nationalist Armies Try Desperately To Establish Defense for Capital.

By The Associated Press

NANKING, Dec. 1—Two Nationalist army groups were reported today desperately trying to establish a new defense line to save this jittery capital from advancing Chinese Communists.

Diplomats expect to hear from the government—perhaps within 24 hours—that Nanking is no longer safe for them. Despite government denials, it was learned reliably such a warning is being prepared.

These developments came as the government abruptly cut its air link with isolated Suchow some 200 miles northwest of Nanking and deployed its forces for a battle to save the nation's capital city.

A new defense line was reported under construction on the southern bank of the Huai river, athwart the approaches to the lower Yangtze valley and 100 miles northwest of Nanking.

The line is anchored to Pengpu, on the rail line midway between Nanking and Suchow, and is being manned by the bulk of some 85,000 troops in the Sixth and Eighth army groups.

These groups are the last major Nationalist force standing between Communist armies and Nanking.

The government's 12th army group, of some 140,000 troops, was reported still tightly encircled by seven Red columns about 50 miles south of Suchow, in the Suhsien sector.

Three other Red columns were reported moved about 25 miles south of Suchow to block the southward movement of the Suchow garrison. The garrison, of some 250,000 men, was reported abandoning Suchow in an attempt to rescue the trapped 12th army group.

With the Nationalist armies thus separated in three pockets and threatened with destruction by numerically superior Red forces, Nanking circles found little comfort in the preparations being undertaken along the Yangtze river itself.

Gen. Tan Gen-Po has set up a Nanking-Shanghai defense area command headquarters at Wushih, midway between the two cities. He has a total combat force of about 40,000 troops.

The airlift to Suchow was stopped as the garrison troops tardily heeded orders to hurry south to relieve the trapped forces.

Official denials that any plan exists for moving China's capital conflict with obvious activity in every government ministry—including the foreign ministry. Archives and furnishings are being packed for shipment.

Many officials already have been alerted for transportation southward with the majority slated to go either to Canton or Formosa.

It was learned that the warning to diplomats would suggest that foreign missions move to Canton. However, it was understood that the warning would not include a formal notice that the national capital is being moved.

GROSSGLAUS CHECKS RECOUNT OF BALLOTS

Former Marionite Wins Canton Suit Following Election.

Harry W. Grossglaus (R), successful candidate by more than 1,500 votes over incumbent Dick France (D), in the November election for sheriff of Stark county, yesterday won his command please court fight to prevent a recount of ballots cast in the election for sheriff.

In an opinion handed down in Canton yesterday, Judge George N. Graham held that the recount demanded by Sheriff France was improper in that it did not ask that the precincts sought to be recounted and the deposit to cover the recount was not made in cash as required by law.

Mr. Grossglaus is the son of Mrs. Lulu Grossglaus of Windsor street. He left Marion several years ago to serve with the marines during the war and later became a veteran police officer in the office of the Stark county prosecutor.

"Tagged Atoms" May Help Farmers, Lilienthal Says

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec. 1—Ohio farmers heard last night that "tagged atoms" may help them grow more and better crops and cut production costs.

David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission, told the 30th annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation that the AEC was planning to finance a study by the department of agriculture on plant food materials in various soils.

"Tagged atoms" of radioactive isotopes, can be watched through geiger counters as they move and act in a substance, Lilienthal explained. Soil and plant food researchers hope to not only observe the progress of plant foods in soils but see inside the plant as it is making use of the soil and how they hold it in the plant.

Primary Purpose

The primary purpose of the study is to find a way to dispose of wastes at atomic furnaces, he said. But the study will "uncover far more than was ever been known about soil conditions that cause plants to grow well or to become stunted and sick. It may help the consumer ask questions for example at home why does your garden do so well and why is it that the next one is not? Why do we have such a hard time with certain types?"

Lilienthal said some atomic research might give farmers useful information on crop yields in time for the 1949 growing season.

He cited research on the profitable use of potassium as fertilizer in different forms on different soil types with different crops. Recommendations may be printed by manufacturers he said.

New uses he said experiments will start on whether the heredity of plants and perhaps even of cattle—can be modified by the greater power of radiation using this as a means to speed up the production of new strains that yield more or are resistant to disease, and so on.

Study Mutations

"This project," he said, "will use radiation to try to bring about changes in new generations of corn, tree plants and potatoes

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Dec. 1—In a commando-like raid, about 300 [illegible] into two strike-bound factories of the Shakespeare rod parties here today, wrecked equipment and parked cars, injured several workmen and then fled.

Police Chief Howard Hoyt termed the raiders "union goons."

Some 60 non-striking workers refused to leave the plants after the raid, professing alarm at milling pickets outside the gates.

Gov. Kim Sigler and his state police commissioner, Donald S. Leonard, immediately flew to the scene for a conference with Kalamazoo officials.

"We don't want any recurrence of this situation and we want to take steps to see that none occurs," Sigler told newsmen.

Chief Hoyt, at the height of the raid, asked Sigler for National Guard aid. He withdrew the appeal, however, when the invaders departed from the scene as rapidly as they had arrived.

Several workers were taken to hospitals with injuries but police said none was seriously hurt.

Big 3 May Act To Block Russ

Warn UN of Possible Counter-Action Against Reds in Berlin.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec 1—The big three Western Powers have warned they may act to counter Russian attacks on their position in Berlin.

The warning was expressed in a joint note handed to Juan A. Bramuglia, outgoing president of the UN security council, soon after the Communists split Berlin yesterday by naming their own rump government

The note was made public today.

France, Britain and the United States declared they could not stand idly by while the Russians intensified their blockade and attempt to force the Western Allies out of the city.

Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister, has sparked neutral efforts in the security council to settle the Berlin deadlock

The Western Powers accepted Bramuglia's latest procedure for studying a possible solution of the Berlin crisis But the Western Powers said they did so with the condition that recent events in Berlin must be considered in attempting a settlement

They called attention to the Communist moves in Berlin to establish a separate administration in the Soviet sector claiming jurisdiction over the entire city.

"The three Western Powers cannot agree that they should be bound to submit to all Soviet measures which add to and intensify the Soviet blockade or which interfere with the city administration, while the Soviet remains uncommitted to any restraint," the note declared.

"The three governments therefore repeat the reservation of their right, declared to the security council when the Berlin question was submitted to that body, 'to take such measures as may be necessary to maintain in these circumstances their position in Berlin pending the outcome of further efforts . . . president of the . . .

The note gave no hint of Soviet counter-action the Western Powers might take and . . . officials had no comment on possible steps

TRUMAN GIVES OK TO HOOVER REPORT

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec 1 — The Hoover commission, assured of President Truman's support for one of its chief governmental reorganization projects, turned today to discussion of foreign and veterans affairs

If time permits, the 12-man commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover may get around to public welfare, revolving funds, or fiscal, budgeting and accounting activities of the executive branch of government

Behind it and marked "sold" to Mr Truman was a recommendation that would consolidate some of the government's 60 administrative agencies into one office.

Such a move would lift a great burden from the President's shoulders, since these agencies now report directly to him Announcing White House approval after a lengthy conference yesterday, Mr. Hoover said

"We proposed to group a number of agencies that serve other (executive) departments into one agency The President agreed that this should be done"

The former President said this plan would affect such functions as procurement, coordination of statistics, information, publications, and public buildings But it would not include the President's own executive office, 'because no one should interfere in the President's job of picking his own staff'

Steel Workers representative in charge of the strike at the two Shakespeare plants, charged the company with "importing outside strike breakers"

He did not explain the connection between his charge and today's disturbance

The CIO United Steel Workers called a strike at the plants Sept 7 in a demand for contract changes Wages were not an issue About 700 employes originally were involved The company claimed, however, that 500 returned to their jobs in a recent back-to-work movement

Chief Hoyt said about 30 or 40 cars roared into Kalamazoo about dawn and barricaded streets around the plants The raiding squad overturned about a dozen other cars, he added

The raiders began throwing bricks through plant windows and into parked cars, the officer added.

The invaders slugged non-strikers attempting to pass through picket lines, according to Hoyt, and then broke through doors and invaded the plants Several non-strikers inside were "beaten up" according to the police report.

President Curtis W. Davis of the Shakespeare Products Co said damage inside his plant appeared to be "considerable He did not estimate its extent, however

OHIO GOP SOLON TO BACK TRUMAN STAND

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, [illegible] Rep. Brenm (R-Ohio) [illegible] the house labor committee which worked out the Taft-Hartley law, said today he will [illegible] to repeal the law in the next congress if that's what labor wants.

Brenm, reelected in November, voted for the law.

The Ohioan, who also voted with the Republican-sponsored law but opposed President Truman's request for stand-by price controls, said he will vote to repeal the taxes as they were and for the [illegible] of that's what Mr. Truman asks for.

In fact, Brenm told a reporter he plans to vote for anything the President says he must have in the way of legislation to make his program work.

"I think we should give it to him and then let the people decide in the next election if that's what they want," he said.

Mr. Truman won the election, he said, "a majority of the people voted for his program. If a majority express themselves as favoring a certain program, I believe it is my duty to support it, reserving the right to oppose those measures which in my judgment do not contribute to the general welfare."

Brenm said that testimony from witnesses before the labor committee under the Taft-Hartley law showed under consideration "misery, hunger and fear" that the rank and file of labor approved the [illegible] of union leaders opposition.

He said a number of workers spoke out before the committee or wrote letters asking for a law to protect them from extortion by some union leaders.

But Brenm also showed Brehm [illegible] that it was the rank and file [illegible] who got out the vote and opposed the law. They were [illegible] by the union leaders.

"If labor says this bill hurts us, why should I force it down their throat? I'll vote to correct the law as labor recommends. I'll vote for repeal if that's what they want."

Brehm said he believes certain features of the Taft-Hartley law, such as anti-Communist affidavits, should be retained in any new labor law.

REV. FRANK RODDY

Rev. Roddy To Conduct Revival at Caledonia

Evangelist for a revival at Caledonia is Rev. Frank Roddy of Marion, formerly of Dayton. The services are being sponsored by the home missionary board of the Church of the Nazarene which has purchased the former Christian Workers' studio in Caledonia for a Nazarene church.

The two-story brick building was owned by Rev. Earl Sturgeon who made religious plaques there. He has announced his plans for entering the evangelistic field in the near future. To make possible purchase of his property, he has turned over to the Nazarene group enough plaques to sell to completely take care of the purchase price, it was stated.

MOTOR OUTPUT PAST '47 MARK

4,800,000th Completed for 1948, Exceeding Total for All Last Year

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) [illegible] 6000th [illegible] gold [illegible] year [illegible] of [illegible] 1949 [illegible] dual [illegible] Sta [illegible] production is [illegible] 420 [illegible] in 1929 [illegible]

We [illegible] happened but [illegible] a stubby line [illegible] this year due to [illegible] shortage and labor disputes is being widely discussed in [illegible] circles. Probably [illegible] year's total production [illegible] trade paper Automotive [illegible] said [illegible] had [illegible] Chrysler plans to weave [illegible] 1949 model [illegible] with current models [illegible] added.

Chrysler division [illegible] scheduled to build some 900 new models [illegible] December along with the [illegible] Studebaker production is [illegible] old or new divisions have similar plans.

Expected in February

While little has been disclosed officially about Chrysler's new model plans, volume production of the new cars is not expected before February. Even introduction of the new cars may be made late in February or early in March.

The speed with which the new model changeovers are being made suggests the various manufacturers are becoming increasingly concerned about what their competitors are doing. All are keeping a close watch on the order lists of their fellow manufacturers. If the buyers' market is near, every car maker wants to be ready for it.

The car makers admittedly are uncertain as to what lies ahead in 1949. Some have said they expect more steel and more car output next year; others say steel isn't going to be any more plentiful than it has been through 1948 and that there is no assurance at all that 5,000,000 vehicles can be built next year.

Aside from the steel outlook, the strength of the unfilled order backlog is giving auto makers some concern. Yet most of them profess to want to get back into competitive selling. They emphasize that a return to a buyers' market does not mean a collapse of production and merchandising.

About the surest thing that can be said now regarding next year's outlook for the car industry is that it will not catch up with demand for its product—unless a sudden curtailment of buying power should wash out the order backlog.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The dispatching of a Navy plane to bring Mme. Chiang to the United States is not to be taken as precedent to clear applications for small loans.

• • •

In the future, as in the past, they will be expected to provide their own transportation, chiefly wings and a suitable number of empty heavy-caliber gas bags.

• • •

I don't know much about Mme. Chiang and get only a little but from the looks of her she's some army ... as been an American out-of-wing statute.

• • •

They not only have our deepest sympathy but quite a bit of our money, and that's remarkable ... considering from a nation which is the subject of a losing foreign exchange more than one season.

• • •

Anyway it would not be advisable for Mrs. Chiang to build her case on the raids raved by the newspaper flyers ... She'll be talking to an expert.

Ohio Bell Winds Up Testimony Today

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS Dec 1—The Ohio Bell Telephone Co today winds up test move in its statewide rate increase hearing before the state utilities commission

The hearing then will be adjourned until Dec 16 to enable 15 protesting communities to prepare their case

The commission yesterday granted delay after legal representatives of the cities said technical evidence demanded time for extra study

Ashley Van Duzer Ohio Bell's chief counsel told the commission the communities demands were "a springboard to delay the hearing while the company is "losing $25,000 a day

The nine per cent boost asked by the company would raise its annual income an estimated $8,500,000

Cities protesting the increase are Cleveland, Campbell Defiance Tiffin Columbus, Toledo, Akron, Dayton, Springfield Youngstown, Steubenville, Clinton, Struthers, Ironton and Grandview Heights.

Crossing of Rhine At Remagen Speeds Up Allied Advance

* * *

By DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

(Copyright, 1948, by Doubleday and Company, Inc.)

22. Remagen Bridge.

ALL DURING the Battle of the Bulge we continued to plan for the final offensive blows which, once started, we intended to maintain incessantly until final defeat of Germany. Operations were planned in three general phases, beginning with a series of attacks along the front to destroy the German armies west of the Rhine. The next phase would comprise the crossing of that river and establishment of major bridgeheads. Thereafter we would initiate the final advances that we were sure would carry us into the heart of Germany and destroy her remaining power to resist.

In early January 1945, with the approval of the Combined Chiefs of Staff, I sent Air Chief Marshall Tedder to Moscow to make necessary arrangements for co-ordination. He was authorized to give the Russian military authorities full information concerning our plans for the late winter and spring, and was to obtain similar information concerning Russian projects.

* * *

WE ALREADY KNEW that the Russians were contemplating an early westward attack from their positions around Warsaw, on the Vistula. We understood that the Russians had effected concentrations for an offensive by the first of the year, but because of conditions of terrain and, more particularly, because of thick blankets of fog and cloud that interfered with air operations, they were holding up the attack until conditions should be more favorable.

Air Chief Marshal Tedder and his associates arrived in Moscow just after this attack began. The Generalissimo and the Russian military authorities received them with the utmost cordiality and there was a full and accurate exchange of information concerning future plans.

The Generalissimo informed our mission that even if the attacks then in progress should fail to reach their designated objectives the Russians would keep up a series of continuous operations that would, at the very least, prevent the German from reinforcing the western front by withdrawing forces from the Russian zone.

When I completed my final plan in January 1945 my friend Field Marshal Brooke informally but very earnestly presented serious objections. His questions were directed against what he called the planned dispersion of our forces.

* * *

HE MAINTAINED that we would never have enough strength to mount more than one full-blooded attack across the Rhine. Consequently, he said, in order to assure ourselves of the strength to sustain such an attack we should, as the situation then stood, pass to the defensive on all other parts of the line.

I laboriously explained to Field Marshal Brooke that, far from dispersing effort, I was conducting the campaign so that when we were ready to initiate the final invasion of Germany on the other side of the Rhine we could bring such a concerted and tremendous power against him that his collapse would quickly follow.

I did not wholly convince him. He said, "I wish that the Twelfth Army Group were deployed north of the Ruhr and the British forces were in the center," implying that my plans were drawn up on nationalistic considerations.

To this I retorted: "I am certainly no more anxious to put Americans into the thick of the battle and get them killed than I am to see the British take the losses. I have strengthened Montgomery's army group by a full American army, since in no other way can I provide the strength north of the Ruhr that I deem essential for the rapid execution of my plans. I have not devised any plan on the basis of what individual or what nation gets the glory, for I must tell you in my opinion there is no glory in battle worth the blood it costs."

Field Marshal Brooke's arguments in the matter were founded in conviction. There was no petty basis for his great concern. This was proved by the fact that only a few weeks later, when the destruction of the German armies west of the Rhine had been accomplished and he stood with me on the banks of the river to witness the crossing by the Ninth Army and the Twenty-first Army Group, he turned to me and said: "Thank God, Ike, you stuck by your plan. You were completely right and I am sorry if my fear of dispersed effort added to your burdens. The German is now licked. It is merely a question of when he chooses to quit. Thank God you stuck by your guns."

* * *

THE OPERATIONAL schedule for the first phase of our strategic plan—destruction of the enemy strength west of the Rhine—contemplated three major assaults. The first would be by the Twenty-first Army Group at the northern flank of our lines; the second, by Bradley's group in the center; and the third, a converging attack by Bradley and Devers to eliminate the enemy garrison in the Saar Basin.

In the planned campaign against German forces confronting our units the first attack was to be carried out by the Canadian Army of the Twenty-first Army Group, and the U. S. Ninth Army, temporarily attached to Montgomery. The Canadians were to attack south and southeast across the Maas River, while Simpson's Ninth Army would cross the Roer to advance northeastward.

The Canadian Army jumped off February 8. It made satisfactory initial gains but the troops quickly found themselves involved in a quagmire of flooded and muddy ground and pitted against heavy resistance. Progress was slow and costly and opposition became stiffer as the Germans began moving their forces from the Roer into the path of the Canadian advance.

I visited General Simpson's Ninth Army during this period and found it keyed up and well prepared for the attack. If Simpson ever made a mistake as an army commander, it never came to my attention.

After the war I learned that he had for some years suffered from a serious stomach disorder, but this I never would have suspected during hostilities. Alert, intelligent, and professionally capable, he was the type of leader that American soldiers deserve. In view of his brilliant service, it was unfortunate that shortly after the war ill-health forced his retirement before he was promoted to four-star grade, which he had so clearly earned.

* * *

IN THE DAYS following upon the Canadian attack in the north the Americans could do little except watch the river and be ready to attack as soon as receding floods permitted the bridging of that obstacle. It was two weeks after General Crerar's Canadians began the attack that this became possible. Simpson set his attack for the morning of the twenty-third.

Preceding by a violent bombardment, the Ninth Army got off as scheduled and succeeded in crossing the river. Initially the troops encountered great difficulties, particularly because of hostile artillery fire upon their floating bridges and because of destruction in the city of Julich, caused by our aerial and artillery bombardment.

In spite of delays, Simpson's forces made fine progress, partially as a result of the prior transfer of German forces from this front to the Canadian battlefield. In less than a week the Ninth Army captured Munchen-Gladbach. This was the largest German city we had captured in the war up to this time.

While going into the city with Simpson, shortly after its capture, I saw my first jet plane. It was a German fighter, flying very high. Every anti-aircraft gun in the area immediately opened intensive fire and within a few seconds fragments of exploded shells were dropping around us. For the only time in the war I put on a steel helmet.

When Simpson began his assault on February 23 it was the signal for Bradley, in the center of our long line, to begin a series of attacks which were brilliantly managed and swiftly conducted. He then had two armies under his operational command, the First on the left, the Third on the right. As a result of the late January and early February fighting along the fronts of these two armies they had secured good positions from which to make a major assault.

* * *

EVERYTHING WENT like clockwork. The VII Corps, on Simpson's right, was quickly able to begin its southward attacks, and from that moment on success attended us everywhere along the front.

While Collins's VIII Corps was making these great advances Hodges launched the III and V Corps southeastward toward the Rhine. The III Corps reached the river at Remagen on March 7. Here it encountered one of those bright opportunities of war which, when quickly and firmly grasped, produce incalculable effect on future operations. The assaulting Americans found the Ludendorff Bridge over the Rhine was still standing at Remagen.

The Germans had, of course, made elaborate advance preparations to destroy the Rhine bridges. The Ludendorff Bridge was no exception. However, so rapid was the advance of the American troops and so great was the confusion created among the defenders that indecision and doubt overtook the detachment responsible for detonation of the charges under the bridge.

I was at dinner in my Reims headquarters with the corps and division commanders of the American airborne forces when Bradley's call came through. When he reported that we had a permanent bridge across the Rhine I could scarcely believe my ears. He and I had frequently discussed such a development as a remote possibility but never as a well founded hope.

I fairly shouted into the telephone: "How much have you got in that vicinity that you can throw, across the river?"

He said, "I have more than four divisions, but I called you to make sure that pushing them over

I replied that I had not expected to have that much [illegible] those are free [illegible] above [illegible] instantly and [illegible] is necessary to make certain of our hold.

His answer came over the phone with a [illegible] "That's exactly what I wanted to do, put the question that perplexed here [illegible] your plans and I wanted to [illegible] with you."

That was one of the happy moments of the war. Brief success in war is usually followed by days or weeks, with the result that when it actually arrives higher commanders and staffs are discounted it and are immersed in plans for the future.

* * *

THIS WAS completely unforeseen. We were across the Rhine, on a permanent bridge, the traditional defensive barrier to the heart of Germany was pierced. The final defeat of the enemy, which we had long calculated would be accomplished in the spring and summer campaigning of 1945, was suddenly now, in our minds, just around the corner.

After General Collins and his VII Corps crossed the Rhine he was of course concerned with getting his floating bridges established as quickly as possible. He called in his corps engineer, Colonel Mason J. Young, and said, "Young, I believe you can put a bridge across this river in twelve hours. What kind of a prize do you want me to give you for doing it in less time than that?"

Young reflected a second and then said, "I don't want anything but if you can promise a couple of cases of champagne to my men we shall certainly try to win them." "All right," said Collins, "I'll get the champagne if you get me a bridge in less than twelve hours."

In ten hours and eleven minutes the 330-yard bridge was completed and the first load crossed the river. Collins gladly paid off. I heard that even this creditable record was later broken.

The stunning victories by the First and Third Armies completed the second step in the planned destruction of the German forces west of the Rhine. There now remained only the great hostile garrison in the Saar Basin. These troops were situated in a huge triangle that had its base along the Rhine, with the two sides meeting in a point seventy-five miles to the west.

Bradley was poised to strike at the nose of the triangular salient and at its northern base; Devers

DAYTON MINISTER IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Rev. H. C. Hahn Addresses "Ladies Night" Meeting.

Rev Harvey C Hahn, pastor of the Otterbein Evangelical United Brethren church of Dayton, was guest speaker at a "ladies night" dinner party of the Rotary club Tuesday night at Hotel Harding. He chose as his subject, "Beefsteak and No Teeth."

Rev Hahn used many amusing anecdotes to bring out the meaning of his subject. He told of a man who had all his life loved beefsteak until he began wearing "drugstore" teeth and somehow the beefsteak did not taste quite the same with the new teeth. Rev Hahn said the moral of the story is that "you shouldn't postpone something you've always wanted to do, until at last, when you start to do it you find that fate has stepped in and grabbed it from you."

Dr D W Brickley Jr, president of the club, was master of ceremonies with Wilson Tway and Edgar Barnhart as acting co-chairmen of the entertainment committee. Preceeding Rev Hahn's address The Serenaders, a Marion men's choral group sang "The Star," "Brahm's Lullaby," "The Sailor's Chorus" and "Dry Bones." The group was directed by L. G. Jones and accompanied at the piano by George Lane.

Guests of the club were Miss Lydia Ebel, president of the Altrusa club, Mr. and Mrs U. A. Nystrom of the Kiwanis club, Mr and Mrs Louis Conkle of the Y Men's club, Mrs. Maud Haybeck, Mrs C. M. Gray of Waterville.

Seeks Federal Aid For Migratory Farmers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Dec 1—An Ohio farm leader said today that many Ohio communities are in bad financial shape because they have had to give medical care to unusually large numbers of ill migratory farmhands.

The official, Luke F Beckman of St Henry who represents Ohio on the advisory committee on farm labor to the department of labor in Washington, wants the federal government to provide medical care for such transient workers.

He said migratory farmhands from the south come to Ohio each summer to assist in the harvest of beets, tomatoes, peaches, potatoes, hybrid seed corn and the like.

The responsibility for their care falls on the communities in which they work. Unusually large numbers became medical obligations this year, Beckman said.

The Ohio farm labor advisory committee asked Beckman to present the case for federal aid to his committee in Washington Dec. 8 and 9.

"After making my windows and mirrors sparkling clean, my biggest surprise with "GLASS WAX" was when I used it on a badly soiled toaster. It looks like new."—Mrs. P. S.

"I used your "GLASS WAX" this morning and I'm wild about it. Chrome, electric utensils, picture glass, mirrors, plastic radio, glass dresser tops, faucets—in fact everything of that nature just glistens in no time at all, and no effort. No damage to my hands and finger nails—and that is important to a secretary who works in an office."—Miss H. F.

"Calling "GLASS WAX" the miracle cleaner is the understatement of the year. Bought my first can last week and started on my windows and mirrors. Well, you know the usual result. But when I started using it on my sterling flatware that is eighteen years old, and on "uncleanable" pewterware and saw the sparkling newness return, it was simply amazing."—Mrs. B. R. S.

"When your advertisement on "GLASS WAX" first appeared I said, 'That's for me'—for I have twenty-two windows, many mirrors, plenty of chromium, enameled surfaces and silverware to polish. Well, right in the can of "GLASS WAX" I bought is the answer to all that hard work. Believe me, it's marvelous! My windows shine like diamonds and I can wash them (all of them) in less than one-half the time it took me before."—Mrs. I. H.

Eleven Schools Represented on 1948 AP All-American Football Team

Fisher, Bednarck, Walker Repeat As First Team Selections.

By TED SMITS
AP Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec 1– Despite college football's continued trend in 1948 towards subordinating the individual to the team, 11 top performers stood out across the land to constitute The Associated Press All-America.

But unlike All-Americas of recent years, no college in 1948 contributes more than one man to the first eleven, not even those great power teams, Michigan and Notre Dame.

Three 1947 first team men are back. Bill Fischer of Notre Dame at tackle, Chuck Bednarik of Pennsylvania at center, and Doak Walker of Southern Methodist in the backfield.

Geographically the All-America reflects the middle west's domination of the sport. Four from the first team come from that area, two from the east, two from the south, two from the southwest, and one from the Pacific coast.

Virtually all the several hundred Associated Press staff writers, newspaper sports editors and broadcaster who joined in nominating the team agreed on five men—Dick Rifenburg of Michigan at end, Buddy Burris of Oklahoma at guard, Halfback Charlie Justice of North Carolina, Fischer and Walker.

Sharp Competition

The rest of the first team members had sharper competition for their posts—Barney Poole of Mississippi at end, Leo Nomellini of Minnesota at tackle, Rod Franz of California at guard, Bednarik at center and Backs Bobby Jack Stuart of Army and Art Murakowski of Northwestern.

As might be expected at the end of a highly successful college football season during which no first rate team went unscored on, and the greatest emphasis was put on offense, contention for backfield honors was keen.

1st Team Caliber

The entire second team backfield—Clyde Scott of Arkansas, Ortmann of Michigan, Sitko of Notre Dame, and Johnny Rauch of Georgia—is of first team caliber.

Leading the first team backfield are probably the only genuine, dyed-in-the-wool triple-threat all-round performers left in this day of specialists—Charlie Justice of North Carolina, a 165-pound throwback to the days of infrequent substitutions, and Doak Walker of S.M.U., three pounds heavier. Both run, pass, and punt —and block and tackle as well, when necessary.

Justice, a 24-year-old junior, who was in the Navy during the war and is married and the father of a young son, is modest off field, but a terror on it.

Justice is a tricky runner, accomplishing by shiftiness and hip-weaving what others do with bull strength.

Power Runner

Art Murakowski, on the other hand, gains ground through terrific speed and strength. This 195-pound powerhouse of Northwestern's backfield splits opposing lines wide open, and once in the clear he cannot be hauled down. He plays both offense and defense, is 23 years old, served in the Navy, including rough action on a destroyer mine layer at Okinawa.

Darling of Texas is Doak Walker of Southern Methodist, a 21-year-old junior. "He is one of the greatest players of all time in the southwest, and matches smartness and courage against power," says his coach, Matty Bell. Walker served in both the Merchant Marine and the Army.

In the first eight games of the season Walker carried the ball 83 times for 442 yards, passed 37 times with 23 completions for 238 yards and six touchdowns, and averaged 43.4 yards on 23 punts. He returned eight punts for 133 yards, caught 11 passes for 256 yards and three touchdowns.

Resembles Justice

Walker resembles Justice as a runner, using his interference effectively and feinting tacklers out of position.

Fourth member of the first team backfield is a solid, hard-running successor to Glenn Davis at West Point—Bobby Stuart, five feet, eleven inches and 175 pounds. He has to his distinction one of the longest of all touchdown runs—103 yards—an important factor in his team's 26-20 defeat of Pennsylvania.

At end is the star of one of the nation's great teams—Dick Rifenburg of Michigan. He is a six foot, three inch, 197-pound senior, the standout on a squad where the level was so high that individual merit often was lost. In Big Nine conference play, the toughest there is, he gained more than 300 yards on passes, scoring four touchdowns, and made 72 yards in ten end-around rushes.

Rifenburg's ability to get behind the secondary, plus his catching skill, is the basis of his playing style. A long-striding runner, he made many over-the-shoulder and off-balance catches.

Seventh Year for Poole

At the other end is George Barney Poole, the same height as Rifenburg but weighing 220 pounds. This is his seventh and last year of college football. He played one year as a Marine V-12 trainee at North Carolina, three at West Point with the great teams of 1944-46, and three at Mississippi.

His experience gives him an edge on his opponents. Between plays he seems almost sluggish and uninterested, conserving his energy for action. On defense, he can crash into opposing backfields almost before the ball is snapped, and as a pass receiver his size and speed make him a terror.

At first team tackles are two giants. Lea Nomellini is six feet-two, 24 years old, 250 pounds. He served 19 months in South Pacific in the Marines, and is a junior at Minnesota. The heaviest lineman on the squad, he is great at recovering fumbles. The team calls him "Leo the lion" because of his roaring voice. "The closest thing to Bronko Nagurski in sheer physical prowess I've seen since Nagurski," says Coach Bernie Bierman. Nomellini played tackle on offense, guard on defense.

Fischer Repeats

The other tackle is Bill Fischer, captain of the mighty Notre Dame team. He is 21 years old, six feet, two inches, and weighs 235 pounds. Fischer was too young for war service. He is playing his last year for the Irish.

Fischer made the All-America last year as a guard, and plays this position more frequently than he does tackle, but he fits in either spot.

At guard is the standout of Oklahoma's excellent team, Buddy Burris, 25, five feet, eleven inches, 210 pounds, a school of business senior. He served 38 months with the Army Engineers, and is tops as a blocker and on defense. He has not been hurt all season, bearing out Coach Bud Wilkinson's contention that a hustling player seldom is injured.

Opposite Burris on the All-America is Rod Franz, a junior on California's undefeated team. He is 23 years old, six feet, one inch, 208 pounds, and hits so hard his shoulders are continuously bruised. Franz served in the Army Air Forces, wears contact lenses.

Charles (Chuck) Bednarik, Pennsylvania senior and 1947 first team center, is back at his old post. He is 23 years old, six feet three inches, 233 pounds. During the war he was a waist gunner on a B-24 and made 30 missions over Germany, twice crash landing. Bednarik is solid on both offense and defense, great at backing up the line, an excellent punter. When he scored the first touchdown of his college career by picking up a blocked kick in the Columbia game he was so exuberant he tossed the ball into the stands, for which a 15-yard penalty was imposed.

All-Out Cage Campaign Begins

By GEORGE SCOTT

The sport that started out as a playful experiment only to grow to be the most looked at sport in America today will get a royal kendoff in Marion and the county this week.

Friday night the Harding cagers will travel to Bexley for their first contest of the season. Coach Kenny Somerlot has been drilling his small but fast squad every afternoon in preparation for the Bexley men who are almost always tough.

Over at St Mary coach Treeze Sherrock is grooming his one-letterman squad to meet the challenge of Columbus St Mary in the big town. The Irish also lack height but hope to conquer the disadvantage with a smooth, effective passing attack.

The county schools, most of which have played several basketball contests already, will scrap in their first league games Friday night. Competition in the Marion county loop always makes the winter a little warmer and this year will be no exception. The openers will be: Morral at Waldo, Prospect at Caledonia, New Bloomington at Martel and Clarkson at Meeker. Pleasant and Green Camp, both league members, will play a make-up tilt the same night. Pleasant will go to Mt Gilead and Green Camp will take the road to Richwood.

Tonight St Mary will meet Central in the opening junior high school contest, a non-league affair. All other games this week are Tri-City league games. Thursday afternoon Buckeye will meet Galion and Central will travel to Upper Sandusky. Friday night Edison will take on Vernon.

It's not hard to see why the hoop sport has become the most popular spectator sport in the nation today. Approximately 25 cage contests will be played in the county in the next few days as compared with a half dozen football or baseball games that could be played in the same length of time. And the above list does not include two YMCA leagues, the Marion County Veterans loop and the two grade school YMCA sponsored leagues.

HAMILTON OFFERED PITT DIRECTORSHIP

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 1 — Capt Tom Hamilton had a choice of jobs today—he can remain as athletic director of the U. S. Naval Academy or become all-around sports boss of the University of Pittsburgh.

Just as most everyone had predicted, Hamilton yesterday was offered the job of Pitt director of physical education and athletics—a brand new position combining the athletic directorship with that of physical education.

And with the position goes the task of bringing Pitt back to athletic glory — particularly to the place of prominence it formerly occupied among the nation's football powers.

The athletic directorship has been vacant since last July when the veteran Jimmy Hagan resigned to climax a series of investigations over Pitt's declining athletic fortunes—particularly on the gridiron.

"DREAM BACKS" FAIL SO COACH McKEEN QUITS

By The United Press

STARKVILLE, Miss., Dec. 1—Because his promised "dream backfield" became a nightmare that lost four games for Mississippi State, Coach Allyn McKeen went job hunting today.

He turned in his resignation last night, and it was accepted immediately.

McKeen, a cold, calculating tactician, had built state into a potent southern football power in his nine years on the job. His teams won 61 southeastern conference games, lost 15 and tied two.

Marionite Lucky On First Attempt At Hunting Deer

Speaking of beginners luck—C. C. Plumley of 111 West Walnut street set out last Sunday for Pennsylvania on his first deer-hunting trip. At Warren he stayed over night at his uncle's and the next day when he crossed into Pennsylvania he purchased a hunting license.

Less than 20 minutes later as he was driving over a bridge spanning the Clarion river just outside of Clarion, he spied a deer swimming in the water and it looked like a buck. Plumley quickly parked his car and sat near the bank where he thought the animal would come out. A few minutes later the deer started out of the river but seeing the hunter he turned and started to swim back across to the other side. Again Plumley waited.

When the buck climbed out on the opposite bank Plumley raised his rifle and fired across the 1250 foot span. The deer staggered, fell, and getting up began to run again. Once more Plumley fired and this time the buck didn't move. The buck was a beauty, an eight-pointer.

The Marion man got his buck on his first hunting trip over 100 miles from his destination and he didn't even have his hunting clothes on.

Take courage, unsuccessful nimrods.

Bowerman, Mathewson's Battery Mate, Dies

By The United Press

ROMEO, Mich., Dec. 1—Frank Bowerman, 79, Christy Mathewson's battery mate with the New York Giants, died yesterday after being seriously ill for several months.

Bowerman was credited with the discovery of Matherson on a Cincinnati ball field. He caught for the Giants in an era when receivers shunned heavily-padded mitts.

Bowerman, in the majors 18 years, was a fruit farmer at the time of his death.

PLAYERS ASK BOWL CUT

By The United Press

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 1—University of Arizona football players have demanded $175 apiece for playing in the New Year's day Salad bowl game, a source close to the squad told the United Press today. Unless the demands are met, the team will refuse to play in the Phoenix, Ariz., game against Drake.

THREE CANADIAN CITIES WANT NEWARK FRANCHISE

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball league said today there were at least three cities in Canada which would be glad to take over the Newark franchise.

These cities are Quebec, Hamilton and Ottawa.

The New York Yankees, who own the Newark club, have been eager to sell the minor league franchise which lost money last year.

All five members of Fordham's football coaching staff attended the Rose Hill institution.

CALEDONIA HUNTER VICTOR IN CONTEST

Ronald Gist Shot Pheasant with Largest Tail Feather.

After measuring 286 pheasant tail feathers Donald Hinton and O. H. Nemeyer, county game protectors, announced yesterday the hunter who had brought in the largest feather in a contest sponsored by Hinton's Sports Shop was Ronald Gist of Caledonia. He will win a bolt-action, 20-gauge shotgun.

The winning feather measured 26 inches. Mr. Hinton said he sponsored the contest to get some idea how successful the bird season was this year. Nemeyer and Hinton generally agreed that pheasants were hard to get. A reason given was that a great amount of corn shocks were left standing throughout the county. However, Nemeyer added an encouraging note. He said pheasant hunting should be good next year because of the small number of birds killed if the county has a good spring.

Iberia Teams Beat Three from Martel

Iberia proved to be a rough host for Martel last night. The Iberia varsity downed Martel, 35-23, the Iberia reserves won, 34-18, and the Iberia Ex-Highs beat the Martel Ex-Highs 25-18. Friday night Iberia will play its first Morrow county league game with Sparta.

STRANAHAN HITS 64

By The United Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 1—Frank Stranahan, star amateur golfer from Toledo, O., set a new West Palm Beach Country club course record of 64 yesterday. Stranahan, winner of the British amateur championship last year, tourned the course in eight under par, cutting two strokes from the old mark set by Bill Stembler of Miami last spring.

Colceri No. 1 High School Star

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Dec. 1 — A star halfback who starred for a Marion (Ohio) No. 1 high school football team of 1948.

The youngster, who hasn't decided where he's going to college but who probably will have scores of offers in the next few weeks, is John Colceri of Canton McKinley.

Colceri, 18-year-old 165-pound halfback who stands five feet 11 inches, was voted the top schoolboy player in Ohio by coaches and sports writers in the annual poll conducted by The Associated Press.

The stocky county star was playing in nine of the 10 Bulldog games all of which he entered, scored 21 touchdowns and passed for 1,128 yards. He was almost a 48-minute player, an excellent open field runner, a good plunger and a sturdy line backer.

Four 50-Yard TDs

Of his 21 touchdowns only nine were made from within the 16-yard line, and four were for more than 50. In 169 runs from scrimmage he gained 1381 yards, a single-handed average of 153 per game. He missed the final game against Massillon, the only Bulldog loss, because of his broken bone.

The "coach of the year" award also wound up in Stark county in the capable hands of Charles "Chief" Mather, mentor of the Massillon Tigers—the state's top team.

Mather, a native of Bloomingdale in Jefferson county, was an outstanding athlete at Hopedale high school and Ohio Northern university. He opened his coaching career at Bridgeport, O., in 1927, winning 10 losing 11 and tying three in three years.

All-Star Pick, Too

He moved to Leetonia in 1940 and 1941 spent three and a half years in the Coast Guard and returned for the 1945 season. In his three campaigns at Leetonia he won 28, lost one and tied one. That record moved him up to Hamilton in 1946, where he won 18 and lost three in two seasons before going to Massillon this year. A year ago he was head coach of the Southern All Stars.

In an informal poll made in connection with the All-Ohio voting, Mather was favored by almost two-to-one this year to coach the Northern All-Stars. The Southern All-Star choice wound up in a deadlock between Theodore of Hamilton and Glenn (Tiger) Ellison of Middletown.

Santa Has a Last. Very much confused, a New York youngster who had until now firmly believed that there was only one Santa Claus, gazes in awe at a truckload of them parked on a city street. The St Nicks were making their traditional entrance rounds to usher in the Forty-second annual Volunteers of America Christmas and Winter Relief drive.

CHIANG

There was no immediate announcement of her plans.

As she stepped from the plane Madame Chiang was greeted first by Ambassador Koo and by Dr. H. H. Kung, former Chinese prime minister who is her brother-in-law.

Then she was welcomed by Mrs. Marshall. They exchanged greetings and almost immediately drove away, accompanied by Stanley Woodward, chief of protocol for the White House and state department.

K. W. Yu, secretary of Chiang Kai-shek who accompanied Madame Chiang from Shanghai, said that she would spend all of today at the Marshall home. Ambassador Koo said he would confer with Madame Chiang there later today.

Marshall in Hospital

Marshall now is in Walter Reed hospital for a physical checkup. State department officials predict he will be away from his office at least several days. What effect this may have on Madame Chiang's plans was not immediately known.

So far no time has been set for conferences with either Marshall or President Truman.

While American officials undoubtedly will show Madame Chiang every courtesy due the wife of a nation's leader, behind their smiling welcome they are not too happy about the visit.

They expect Madame Chiang not only to appeal to government officials for aid, but also to try to stir up greater popular interest in the Chinese cause.

Her mission comes at a time when Mr. Truman and Marshall apparently have concluded that any aid which would involve this country deeply in the Chinese war is out of the question.

Some new program of carefully limited help still seems probable. But whether it will be designed to furnish strong support to the Chiang regime still is uncertain. American authorities appear to have little confidence in his ability to make a comeback no matter what help he gets.

Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman meanwhile schedhled a flying inspection trip to China. He leaves Friday for London, then will proceed to Shanghai, arriving Dec. 11.

Modern Streamlined Hen Better Producer

By The United Press

FRESNO, Calif.—Today's hen, living proof of the value of scientific breeding, turns out 50 per cent more eggs than did her counterpart at the beginning of the century.

Ray Houck, assistant farm adviser for Fresno county, ascribes the production line speed-up in the nation's hen-houses to organized flock improvement by planned breeding, use of commercial hatcheries and improved feed.

Houck reported that the modern hen produces an average of 128 eggs per year, 42 more than the national average for 1909-18.

Although hurricanes occur in other places, they usually are not as violent as those encountered in the Marianas Islands.

JAMES MAUTZ URGES BLOOD BANK SUPPORT

Local Program To Be Conducted as Red Cross Activity.

[illegible] be the customary privilege on the hospital bill. The professional fee of the physician. The national blood program is designed to assure patients an adequate supply of blood [illegible] when it is needed. [illegible] will be furnished by the Red Cross without cost, and that kind of all types will be available.

With complete approval and guarantee of support from local medical, hospital and health authorities the local Red Cross chapter applied to the national headquarters of the organization for admission into the program. The blood will be collected just locally from donors here and sent on the same day, to Columbus which is a fixed center. At the fixed center the blood is processed, analyzed and typed. While blood is then returned to hospitals within the community here for transfusion to patients.

"Thus it becomes apparent that the national blood program exists for the community and is a community responsibility. The blood which is donated by our citizens is used to save the lives of people in this community, perhaps a friend, neighbor, or a member of the donor's own family. Of course, the success of a program of this type depends entirely on the generosity of citizens in donating their blood," Mr. Mautz states.

When the program gets under way here the chapter is depending on all healthy men and women between the ages of 18 and 60 to give 30 minutes of their time and a pint of their blood, Mr. Mautz states. Blood will be collected under the latest scientific principles. A physician and registered nurse will supervise the blood donations at all Red Cross centers.

[illegible] in the United States there are [illegible] and professional [illegible] that the cost of this program is prohibitive to most families. If [illegible] patient is required as many as a dozen transfusions after an accident and at $25 or $30 a pint the financial outlay is beyond the resources of the average family. Frequently families are unable to obtain donors from their friends and relatives. This is especially true when the patient has a rare blood type.

Mr. Mautz cites two cases to illustrate his point. A boy in Brooklyn, N. Y., has been given four hundred pints of blood. Unless the boy continues to receive blood he could not live. A minister in Virginia has received nine pints of blood of a rare type. The minister's family would have had to contact more than 100 donors had not the Red Cross possessed the unusual type in quantities to meet his needs.

"The Red Cross makes no charge for the blood," Mr. Mautz states,

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped. Its sole cause is the itch-mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. EXSORA kills the itch-mite almost instantly. Only three days EXSORA treatment is required. At all GALLAHER DRUG STORES.

PROSPECT BOY HURT IN STRANGE MISHAP

Thad Sobers in City Hospital from Injuries.

A 12-year-old Prospect boy, Thad Sobers, son of Mr and Mrs G. E. Sobers, is in City hospital receiving treatment for head injuries suffered Monday night when he was presumably thrown from the motorbike he was riding near his home in Prospect.

Young Sobers was found about 9 30 lying unconscious in the street near the school building by several of his schoolmates who were returning to their homes from basketball practice at the school The Sobers boy had been to the practice but had left early The motorbike he was riding belonged to one of his school friends and he had borrowed it for the evening

The family of the boy have not been able to determine exactly how the accident happened as young Sobers suffered a slight brain concussion and he can't remember just how it did occur.

Immediately after finding him the group of boys took him to the office of a Prospect physician, and he was later removed to the hospital here He regained consciousness after arrival at the hospital He is suffering from a concussion and lacerations about the face and head and his condition today is reported to be fairly good"

HIGHWAY DEPT. AIMS AT GOAL

$25,000,000 Worth of Work Contracts To Be Let Yet This Year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O. Dec. 1—The state highway department hopes to meet its construction goal for 1946 despite delays blamed on a shortage of engineers and rights of way, it was disclosed today.

George J. Thormyer, chief engineer, disclosed that bids would be opened on three separate dates this month—the day of the Republican inauguration of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert—for a record total of more than $25,000,000 worth of road work.

"That will bring us to about what we set out to do at the start of the year," he said.

Bidding Dates Fixed

Four million dollars worth of projects are up for letting Dec. 7, he said, $8,000,000 more Dec. 17, and the remainder Dec. 21.

"We had intended having only the usual two lettings," Thormyer explained, "but the second got so full of projects that it became unwieldy and we split it."

The year's goal originally was $50,000,000 worth of work under way or under contract, he said, but rising prices and delays have made the figure $63,000,000.

"There's a shortage of trained engineers on our staff," he said, "and in addition we have had difficulties securing rights of way in some places."

He cited instances in which local factions had obtained injunctions against road work, and others in which local interests tried to force the department to put a state highway through their town whether it was economically justifiable or not.

Bigger projects being offered, he said, include 7½ miles of work on state route 3 and U. S. 22 in Clinton and Warren counties, construction of two lanes to U. S. 40 from Springfield east to the Madison county project and make a four-lane divided highway all the way to Columbus; ten miles of widening, resurfacing, with some new sections, on U. S. 30-N in Crawford and Wyandot counties; the Euclid-Eagle grade crossing elimination in Cleveland, the Chester avenue extension in Cleveland and five miles of construction of two more lanes on U. S. 422 in Trumbull county.

Mrs. W. N. Harder, a charter member of the Lecture-Recital club, was a guest. The next meeting will be a Christmas party Dec. 27 in the home of Miss Rosaline Manzo on West Columbia street.

Ray-of-Hope Diplomacy

IT'S unlikely that any bets will be made on the success of the plan for mediation of the Berlin crisis at odds shorter than 500 to 1. Nevertheless, it's important that a plan has been proposed and accepted. Argentine Foreign Minister Bramuglia, who pushed it through the United Nations security council during his term as the council's president, has kept the hope of diplomatic settlement alive.

That is a triumph in itself and a tribute to the potentialities of the United Nations. Without the UN at this juncture in international affairs there could not even be such a thing as ray-of-hope diplomacy. The stalemate between the Kremlin and the Western Powers would be absolute. Perhaps it is anyway, but the existence of a doubt makes a vast difference.

Under the Bramuglia plan, a commission of neutral experts will try to thread an acceptable course through the blockade of Berlin. It is no secret that they will look for a way to save the faces of all the governments concerned. Nor can it be much of a secret that the United States is hoping they will find it. On Tuesday, for the fourth straight day, no plane in the Berlin airlift could leave the ground. The worst fog in four years had done what the Kremlin couldn't do.

The Hands of Esau

THOSE who keep track of such things warn that the next move of the homegrown but foreign-bossed Communists will be to regain the positions of confidence they jeopardized by striking out on their own in the presidential election. Being realists above all else, their main job is to stay in position to work from within.

The ruse they will use is as old as the "hands of Esau" which were mistaken by his blind father for those of Jacob his dutiful son. Communists will profess to be what they are not. They will endure abuse, as they did recently in the CIO convention in Portland. But they will not abandon their purpose, which is to worm their way into the confidence of the gullible and thereafter to betray that confidence with their malicious sabotage of the United States.

Nor is the ruse likely to be confined to party-line Communists. Others of the pinkish hue are confronted with the same problem of worming their way back into positions where they can do maximum mischief with minimum interference. For instance, there are many who will profess to be staunch and dutiful friends of the free enterprise system so they may be able to get on with their undercover promotion of state socialism. They will desert Henry Wallace in droves and show up later as applicants for key positions in Washington—full of sorrow but also full of purpose.

In prayers for the nation these days it is fitting to mention the need for divine guidance to tell the difference between the Esaus and the Jacobs lest freedom perish through betrayal from within.

They'll Be Trumanized

NO DOUBT of it. Harry Truman's unpredicted success at the polls in 1948 added a new dimension of uncertainty in elections. And it promises to add something else—a word to the language.

In England a few days ago, a spokesman for the Labor party said he had only one word for Conservatives claiming they knew that the majority of Englishmen were opposed to a government policy. The word was "Truman."

In years to come, issues will be Trumanized; i.e., resolved by unforeseen circumstances. Even the proof of the pudding may cease to be in the eating and become, instead, in the Trumanizing. Underdogs will defy the odds and Trumanize favored opponents. Dark horses will gallop out of the shadows and Trumanize the favorites.

It's no small thing to add a brand new word to the language. If Harry Truman never did another thing of note in his whole life, he would be assured of lasting fame for his demonstration of Trumanizing in the presidential election of 1948.

The Franchise—Worth $30

ALL kinds of schemes to bring out the vote have fermented in the yeasty minds of those who despair of getting it out by education. One scheme is going to be proposed in the 81st congress by Representative Arthur G. Klein of New York's 19th district.

It would give each voter paying a federal income tax a credit of $30 with the internal revenue bureau on presentation of a voting certificate stamped by a local election board. The theory is that no qualified voter would pass up a chance to get $30 for performing one of the basic obligations of citizenship.

This runs up against another theory, which is that the citizens who don't care enough about their share in popular sovereignty to vote without being bribed and otherwise cajoled to do more harm than good at the polls. If it were to take $30 to get them there, that would be prima-facie evidence that their vote was for sale. Under such circumstances, devotees of democracy might sleep better at nights if no open bidding were authorized.

Men of Wall Street

By David Lawrence

Seen Differently in Campaign and Afterward

WASHINGTON

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has said it is time to see that the most difficult problem is to get persons from the business world to come to Washington in peacetime and take important positions of responsibility.

"The fear is going to be exploited from now on by the Republicans that those of the 'left wing' from whom I have been receiving lately a cold war are sniping at government officials formerly in the business world.

The cry of "Wall Street" influence is one that stirs up interest in a political campaign but when the elections are over the hard jobs of government must be undertaken by persons who are competent. It so happens that the business and financial world puts to the acid test persons of the very same talents as are required in policymaking branches of the government.

Lately the attacks — sometimes veiled and sometimes open—have been directed against Robert Lovett, undersecretary of state, and William H. Draper, undersecretary of the Army, Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Averell Harriman, all of whom have come to government from Wall Street.

• • •

IN NONE OF THESE positions is economic policy made nor is there any connection with the matters that affect the ups and downs of Wall Street operations. But once a man has spent a few years in Wall Street in law or finance or business, the "left wing" idea is that he is thereby disqualified from holding office in Washington and that somehow it must be inferred that he is lacking in integrity or in the capacity to administer public affairs fairly.

The implication is, of course, absurd. Franklin D. Roosevelt started his law career in a Wall Street office. Chief Justice Stone, one of the liberals of the supreme court, was a partner in a prominent Wall Street law office. There are many other examples.

The interesting thing which the public generally does not know is that some of the best public servants have come to Washington from Wall Street. Even those who are of independent financial means sometimes make better officials than those political officials who are looking toward Wall Street for their future in business or law or finance. Many former officials of the New Deal are now active either in law practice or in business in Wall Street or its counterpart in Chicago or Boston or in the financial districts of other big cities of the country.

• • •

IT WAS Theodore Roosevelt who, after he left the presidency, wrote that only a man of independent means could really make an independent public official. He argued that a man with a $100,000 estate—one could easily live in those days on the income from such a sum—would not be dependent on his government salary and only a man who was ready to resign at any time would make the kind of decisions and exercise the kind of judgment which would make him an invaluable servant of the people.

Some of the men who are invited to Washington from business or finance come here at a real sacrifice. They give up opportunities for financial gain when they enter the government service. Some of them came here during the war and have stayed on because they have become interested in public service. Instead of discouraging and driving such men away they ought to be encouraged. For, if the "left wing" attack succeeds, it will be hard to interest first-class men from the business or financial world in coming to Washington. They will not be willing to take posts that lead to smears and malignment.

• • •

DURING THE LAST campaign President Truman delivered several speeches that were wholly unnecessary to the making of his case for continuance in office and one of these was the charge against Wall Street influence in government in the event of a change in administration. Naturally it boomeranged and caused some comments that he had in his own entourage some Wall Street men. It was inferred that he was inconsistent. That same line of attack has now risen to plague the President, who really wants to get the best men possible to serve the government no matter what their background. For it is axiomatic that background in business or law or finance does not of itself determine the integrity or honesty or the competence of an individual and that no group or class of citizens in the country has any monopoly on the qualities of honesty and fairness so necessary to the making of a good public servant.

The Yardstick of Policy

By George E. Sokolsky

AMERICAN imperialism has been achieved as a by-product of war and without the consent of the American people. It is because the American people have neither a tradition of imperialism nor a national desire to meddle in the affairs of other countries that the policy of this country is uncertain, unfocused, experimental and at times meaningless.

For instance, no country which anticipated an expenditure of $5,000,000,000 a year for the purpose of maintaining a bloc of friendly states in Europe would have issued JCS 1067, which paralyzed the industry of Europe and which hampers, if it does not prevent, the arming of Europe. In a word, because of JCS 1067, we are forced to employ the Marshall plan to help reconstruct what we agreed should be dismantled and we shall have to contribute an even larger sum to arm the countries which cannot arm themselves because we knocked down and permitted the Russians to dislocate the principal arsenals of Europe.

• • •

IT DOES NOT seem possible that such a paradox could have been policy. In spite of the discovery of our errors, we continue to make them. For instance, our policy concerning the Ruhr should be to require both France and western Germany to find a program for joint economic development of the Ruhr. It does not make sense for us to contribute tremendous sums to both countries if they will quarrel over an iron and steel industry which is essential to both. If they cannot agree on essentials, why should we underwrite their quarrels?

Yet, both can point to the ridiculous order JCS 1067 which directed General Eisenhower to "take no steps (A) looking toward the economic rehabilitation of Germany, or (B) designed to maintain or strengthen the German economy." The cost of this order to the American taxpayer is calculable only in billions of dollars and that cost can only be lessened by restoring productive efficiency to the Ruhr.

• • •

SIMILARLY, as regards China, the United States at Yalta recognized Soviet Russia as the successor to Japan's rights and claims in Manchuria. In 1915 when Japan issued the 21 demands, the United States was the first to reject them. Again, when the Japanese repeated that at the Paris peace conference, we rejected them except for the Shantung clauses. Again when Japan occupied Manchuria on Sept. 19, 1931, we issued the Stimson doctrine of non-recognition and we were prepared to intervene in partnership with Great Britain—a partnership which Sir John Simon refused on behalf of his country. The far eastern war did not begin at Pearl Harbor but had been in the making more or less since 1911 when the Japanese took umbrage at American racial discrimination.

Yet at Yalta we agreed to give to Soviet Russia—which was then neutral so far as the Far East was concerned—the Japanese rights and claims in Manchuria. At that moment, the United States pursued a policy which sooner or later would reduce China to the position of Poland or Rumania. As long as Russia holds Manchuria, no independent government can maintain itself in China, just as when Russia holds Shanghai, the Philippines become imperiled.

• • •

Perhaps none of this means anything to a people who despise the involvements of imperialism. Some might even say: let Russia take the whole of Asia, as long as we have a bloc of nations in western Europe. Of course, they wanted Tojo executed for thinking that Japan build a co-prosperity sphere in eastern Asia and they wanted this country to go to war with Hitler for attempting to establish an empire in Europe.

So far as the United States is concerned, this lack of a yardstick of policy, this opportunism, this hit-or-miss diplomacy, this failure to measure American policy by American interests may finally isolate us more than anything any American first proposed. We can find ourselves an island surrounded by states in the Soviet federation with whom we shall have no contact, no trade, no interchange of any kind. We may be separated not by an iron curtain but enclosed in an iron box.

The crux of this is the China problem. As we handle that, so will our future be.

First Newspaper

Recently a wealthy New Yorker reproduced a quaint little newspaper called a facsimile of the first newspaper to appear in America. Benjamin Harris, who had been exiled from England for his unlicensed publication of a similar paper, was the proprietor of the little four-page paper. Appearing on the streets of Boston on a Thursday forenoon, Sept. 25, 1690, Publick Occurrences announced that "the country shall be furnished once a month (or if any glut of occurrences happen, oftener) with an account of such considerable things as have arrived unto our notice."

Unfortunately, Harris was arrested for printing an unlicensed publication. The governor had insisted that the paper "contained reflections of a very high nature." In those days governors could run a newspaper. Because there is only one copy of Publick Occurrences, it may be technically inaccurate to call it America's first newspaper, since continuity is part of the definition. Yet despite Harris' apparent failure, he had started something in the colonies. For that reason he has been accorded a place of high honor in the annals of journalism.

Lincoln Stronghold

DECATUR, Ill.—A broad belt in central Illinois is known as the "Lincoln country," because Abraham Lincoln lived there. But the title is supported by current as well as historic facts. A survey shows that eight relatives of the Civil War president still make their homes in Macon county. They are fourth, fifth and sixth cousins.

Wages and Prices

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON

THERE has been during recent weeks a drop, very slight, in prices of food and some other goods. This has led to argument, prophecy and wish about the broad question, whether cost of living has reached and passed its peak, or would resume its upward course.

Persons who hope or argue that the peak is passed rely much on the bumper crops, in some cases the largest on record, of grain, especially corn, and some other forms of food. Normally this condition could be relied upon, especially when the bumper crops coincide with increased production of food in countries where it had been prostrated by war. We have bumper crops in America and at the same time have less demand for our crops from abroad. Normally that combination should result in lower prices of food; historically it has.

Yet those who rely on bumper crops to bring about lower cost of living, while they have precedent and much else on their side, need to bear in mind the part that government has come to have in prices. During three years past there have been bumper crops of potatoes, but this did not prevent the government from being successful in energetic steps it took to prevent the price of potatoes from going down. The government is now taking steps similarly formidable to support the prices of grain. Those who hope for lower food prices, or argue that they will come, must assume that the fordes of nature can resist even the power of government. Conceivably that could be.

OTHERS BASE their hopes on the people. They assume that the people, when they fully understand that the government prevents prices of food from going down, will change the government. But just the opposite of that took place in the recent election. Much more than any other issues, the candidate who was victorious held out two assurances. One was to farmers, that price support of crops would be continued, with increase of facilities for the mechanism of it. The other principal assurance was to the group who, with farmers, have a twin part in cost of living. To labor Mr. Truman held out assurance of more consideration. The "more" is likely to express itself, directly or indirectly, in higher wage rates, which in most cases would be followed by higher prices of manufactured goods, as has happened in the past three years of the Truman administration.

In the welter of speculation about the future course of prices is one fairly tangible expectation. So far as there can be certainty about any future condition, it is apparent that the country has ahead of it a widespread raise in wage rates. Raises are already under way. Since October 1 there have been more than a score of raises, most of them local but in the aggregate covering a large number of workers and affecting such industries as oil refining, rubber, leather, farm implements, glass, telephone communication. Last week saw a raise in the shipping industry on both coasts.

THESE REFLECTED a current already under way. Recently has come a demand on a nationwide scale for what is called a "fourth round" of raises, the fourth, that is, since the end of the war and the beginning of Mr. Truman's presidency. The demand was vocal at the recent national conventions of CIO and AFL, which include unions in most of the country's major industries. At the AFL convention, apparent sympathy for the demand was likely to be inferred by labor from a statement of Secretary of Labor Tobin which, as reported by the United Press, was to the effect that conditions call for a raise to 16 million workers.

If the fourth round of wage rate raises takes place, there will be a new spurt in the wage price spiral. How this operated during the past three years was expressed in a report dealing with inflation by the official council of economic advisers to the President last July: "The inflationary effects have been multiplied through the price-wage spiral. . . . Substantial wage increases which have often been made to catch up with previous price increases, have been anticipated in turn or promptly followed by substantial raises in the prices of industrial goods."

Increases in prices of manufactured goods would mean of course higher prices paid by farmers for what they buy. These, under the price support law, would automatically bring higher support prices for farm crops. Higher costs of food thus engendered would in turn become the basis of yet further demands by labor for raises in wage rates. Thus would come a new upward spurt of the wage-price spiral.

Salvage Hitler Steel

By The Associated Press

BERLIN — The Russians, who have already removed the marble from Hitler's ruined Reichschancellery, are now taking its steel ceiling girders.

The girders from chancellery walls and granite from its foundations went into construction of Place Red Army war memorials. The steel is to be used in reconstruction of a theater at Karlshorst, headquarters of the Soviet military administration.

Report on Parsley

By Truman Twill

A sure-fire way to hit a conversational bulls-eye is to mention parsley. Women get a glint in their eyes and want to know what's wrong with it. Men sneer and start telling what's wrong with it. A lively time is had by all.

There's nothing really wrong with parsley, except the way it's misused. It makes a very pretty sight in a garden and is practically indestructible. Rabbits shun it and friendly dogs love to sniff at it etc.

But unfortunately, a number of years ago, a woman who was not smart enough to let well enough alone snipped off a few sprigs of parsley and brought them into the house. Perhaps she intended to fill in a bouquet or something.

But her plans misfired, and in a mad moment of whimsy she decided to play a joke on her husband and put the parsley on a plate of food. This led to stern words and a stern reproof.

That started the trouble. Before no woman gives up without a battle. So the next time the parsley appeared on the table it was sneaked into one of those [illegible] salads, chopped into little pieces.

[illegible] the [illegible] smart to fall for the [illegible] of the little pieces, [illegible] the living room rug and stomped [illegible] let you catch you trying [illegible] bells on.

This gave rise to what now had turned into a game. [illegible] found the parsley, ran it through [illegible] a few times until it was indistinguishable from carpet sweepings, then sneaked it into all sorts of dishes where its presence was not suspected. Some fun.

Then, to prove [illegible] no man could bellow at her and get away with it she waited until company came for dinner and put a few sprigs on the table to add insult to injury. That's the way women handle such matters; they never give up.

All this [illegible] years ago. New twists have been added to the outrage since then. For one thing, parsley keeps getting bigger and tougher. There even are women who raise it in flower pots during the winter months, to make sure that a man will be able to have a vacation from the stuff.

Modern parsley is immune to things that would destroy other plants. It can survive restaurant dish water and come back again and again for encores. The price of meat may go above a dollar a pound, portions of same may get so skimpy there is nothing left but the bone, but the parsley will accompany the bone will be greener and thriftier than ever.

Right now parsley is firing great guns. There must have been a bumper crop of the stuff, or maybe they're making it out of synthetics. In any event, the country is being flooded with parsley, and unless men can get together on some plan to collect it all in one big pile and burn it up, things look dark. Apparently the women who are determined to prove they cannot be dictated to have proved the point. No man likes parsley—so there it is—mountains of it—everywhere—in all forms—and none of them good.

LONDON, Nov. 29—Forty-five of Britain's best fashion designers gambled against heavy odds last week to persuade the dressy woman to shorten her skirts.

In a swank Mayfair hotel they launched their spring and summer collections aimed at the export market. In almost every one of the 125 ensembles displayed the skirts had risen two inches. The ballet skirt and the ballerina suit had vanished. The numbers—some fullness and the taffeta underskirts of the new look were replaced by pencil slimness and the customary silk undership.

In the many coats and suits displayed in the show the classic line was the best bet for smartness. Slender-waisted jackets with full but unexaggerated skirts, fullness at the knee level in many models; neat belted lines for country coats; slim high-waisted and empire lines for town; skirts plain in front, pleated at the sides or at the back, no hip padding, roll sleeves and modified dolman sleeves.

• • •

AN OUTSTANDING coat was fashioned in gray showerproof cavalry drill. In thunder-gray and lined with gay scarlet tartan the tight waistbanded coat had matching hood which could be removed and hidden in the pocket on dry days.

Big loose-fitting swagger and travel coats fitted over tight-skirted suits.

Two lines of buttons formed a back interest on the jacket of one tweed suit. A tuxedo-fronted jacket fitted over pencil slim skirt. In every ensemble the skirt length was about 14 inches from the ground.

Afternoon dresses featured slimmer silhouettes. Interest lay more to the back than the front or side. Accent was on three-quarter length sleeves with important cuffs—military, winged and buttoned back. Many dresses featured low filled-in necklines.

• • •

THE EMPIRE LINE highlighted the evening dresses. High-waisted gowns were shown in bronze-colored taffeta, in an interesting use of South Sea island cotton-like taffeta.

Gabardine and whipcord are once more popular materials for spring and summer. Novelty diagonal tweeds and fine woolen georgette for the cooler days ahead; small shepherds plaid, gingham and petersham for afternoon outfits and more for evening new sophisticated cottons for days and evening.

Best bet for the spring: a red corduroy three-quarter length coat with high stand-up collar worn over a skin-tight black skirt with button interest at the back waistline.

OWU GRIDDERS HEAR DOWLER

Marion Mayor Speaks at Delaware Football Club's Annual Banquet.

Mayor Dowler was the principal speaker last night at a banquet of the Delaware Downtown Quarterback club honoring the 1948 Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan university.

The team, winners of six of eight games this season, coaching staff and managers were guests of the club at Bun's restaurant in Delaware. It was the first football banquet thrown by the Quarterbacks, organized this year by a group of Delaware business men.

F. Beverly Kelly, Delaware businessman and sports enthusiast, presided at the banquet as master of ceremonies.

Cites Changes in Game

Mayor Dowler, a former Ohio Wesleyan gridder and coach at Delaware High school, told the team that many changes have come about to improve the game since he played for Wesleyan in the early 20's.

"Football has become more of a deceptive game than it used to be," he said, but the fundamentals are still the same. Though the modern game is more open and cagey, the fans favor it over the old 'power type'."

He told the team, "face the problems of life with the courage you have shown on the football field and you will be a success."

Coach Glen Fraser announced that Ray Leech, a senior guard who earned his third football letter this season, was elected honorary captain by the Bishops.

Leech, sidelined part of the season with a knee injury, is from Morenci, Mich.

Bun Trophy Awarded

The Bun trophy to the most valuable player went to Bruce "Ox" Heisler, senior tackle from Ravenna. Heisler, a three-letter winner, was named on several press association all-Ohio teams last year and in 1946.

George Gauthier, OWU athletic director, characterized the team as 'one of great teams in OWU history," adding, it played great ball despite its small size and many injuries."

The coaches and players were introduced separately to the Quarterbacks and Coach Fraser complimented them on their fine spirit.

Following the program, movies of Wesleyan's 26-25 upset victory over Washington and Jefferson were shown.

Bethlehem, Pa. To Be Lighted By Giant Star

By International News Service

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Dec. 1—A giant star will light the heavens above Bethlehem tomorrow evening, ushering in the traditional Yuletide celebration in the "Christmas City of the U. S. A."

The star, unlike the one that guided the Wise Men to Christ's manger 1948 years ago, will be man-made and electric-powered. But Bethlehem's Christmas spirit—the spirit of joy, friendship and charity—has come down through the centuries.

For most of the year, Bethlehem is a typical Pennsylvania city, nestled among rolling hills and farm country.

But each Christmas season, Bethlehem takes on an entirely new appearance that few—if any—other cities can equal. Towering Christmas trees—some 50 feet tall—blossom with thousands of multi-colored lights.

But Christmas, to Bethlehem residents, means much more than just lighting up the town.

The very foundations of the city are religious.

It was founded 207 years ago by a band of Moravians under Count Nicholas Zinzendorf who had fled religious oppression in Europe.

On their first Christmas eve in America, in 1741, these Moravians decided to name their little town of Bethlehem, in honor of Christ's birthplace and as a symbol of their own "new life."
